

Rules and Regulations for R&D Projects for Students

1. Project Ownership and Claims

- Students participating in R&D projects must acknowledge that they will have no claim of ownership or intellectual property rights over the project or its outcomes.
- All research, data, and results generated from the project will be the sole property of the organization.

2. Financial Provisions

- No stipends or monetary compensation will be provided to students for their participation in the project.
- Necessary expenses directly related to the project, such as materials and equipment, will be covered by the organization.

3. Confidentiality

- Students must maintain strict confidentiality regarding all aspects of the project.
- Disclosure of project details to individuals outside the organization, including but not limited to family, friends, and associates from the educational institution, is strictly prohibited.
- Students are forbidden from publishing any project-related information in conferences, journals, or any other public platform without explicit written consent from the organization.

4. Compliance and Conduct

- Students are expected to adhere to all guidelines and policies set forth by the organization and the Government of India.
- Any breach of these rules and regulations will result in immediate termination from the project and potential legal action.

5. Project Documentation and Reporting

- Students must submit regular progress reports as required by the project supervisor.
- All documentation must be accurate, thorough, and submitted on time as per the schedule provided by the organization.

6. Use of Resources

- Resources provided by the organization for the project must be used responsibly and solely for project-related activities.
- Misuse of resources will be considered a violation of these rules and may result in disciplinary action.

7. Completion and Evaluation

- Upon completion of the project, students must submit a final report detailing their contributions and findings.
- The final evaluation will be conducted by the project supervisor and other designated members of the organization.

8. Intellectual Property Rights

- Any intellectual property developed during the project will belong to the organization.
- Students must assign all rights, titles, and interests in any inventions or discoveries made during the project to the organization.

By participating in the R&D project, students agree to abide by the above rules and regulations. Any violations will be taken seriously and may lead to severe consequences, including but not limited to removal from the project and legal repercussions. Also, Sign the Intern Form and Annexure A.
